barry buzan proposes a new approach to making international relations a truly global discipline that transcends both eurocentrism and comparative civilisations he narrates the story of humankind as a whole across three eras using its material conditions and social structures to show how global society has evolved deploying the english school s idea of primary institutions and setting their story across three domains interpolity transnational and interhuman this book conveys a living historical sense of the human story whilst avoiding the overabstraction of many social science grand theories buzan sharpens the familiar story of three main eras in human history with the novel idea that these eras are separated by turbulent periods of transition this device enables a radical retelling of how modernity emerged from the late 18th century he shows how the concept of global society can build bridges connecting international relations global historical sociology and global world history this book discusses contemporary constellations of international politics and global transformation it offers guidance on how to conceptualize the complexity of current global changes and practical policy advice in order to promote an open global society in the light of today s challenges the author re interprets the main argument of the philosopher karl popper in the open society and its enemies based on this framework and new empirical evidence the book discusses the thesis of an ongoing third world war triggered by fundamental deficits in nation building occurring primarily within states and not between them and accelerated by asymmetric forms of warfare and islamist totalitarianism the book also explores various threats to the global order such as the paradox of borders as barriers and bridges the global effects of the youth bubble in many developing countries and the misuse of religious interpretation for the use of political violence lastly the author identifies advocates and supporters of a liberal multilateral and open order and argues for a reinvention of the western world to contribute to a revival of a liberal global order based on mutual respect and joint leadership taking issue with those who see recent social transformations as an extension of modernity the author contends that social theory must confront an epochal change from the modern era to a new era of globality in which human beings can conceive of forces at work on a global scale and in which they espouse values that take the globe as their reference point the book begins by assessing the problems of writing about modernity showing how narratives of an endlessly self perpetuating modern age were intrinsic to the modern project the attempt by enlightenment philosophers to transform the everyday world in accord with science and logic under the auspices of the nation state now we are beginning to realize that the nation state and the modern project cannot renew themselves endlessly through expansion instead the author contends the age has culminated in its own dissolution and globality has supplanted modernity as the basis for action and social organization in theorizing the global age he considers the worldwide environmental consequences of aggregate human activities the reconception of human security in the age of nuclear weapons technological advances in communication systems the rise of a global economy and the growing reflexivity of global consciousness as people and groups begin to refer to the globe as the frame for their beliefs the book concludes by examining the consequences of the global age thesis for politics identifying a new popular construction of the state that the author terms performative citizenship in the modern age the nation state was the central power and citizens were beneficiaries of that power with rights and duties in the global age citizens respond to the lack of central power by creating or performing the state themselves the global managerial class uses the skills learned in the bureaucracy of the nation state to bring pressure on national governments in the interests of global economic environmental or human rights issues
